

RLI event report

Event organisers

Work

early-career researcher's emotional journeys into academia

Abstract In this paper, we explore the emotional experiences of early-career researchers in academia, drawing on data from a series of focus groups and interviews.

applications of our emotions shape our academic identities. We wanted to probe the implications of our (varied) emotional responses to academic work, how we both understand and even we have/feel them.

continue to work on them. I agree that informed decision based on emotions regarding interpersonal related to them

at all academic work and should in academic work travel, we do not know

- Distribute and delegate tasks from early on in the organization of the event, utilising different organizers strengths and skillsets.
- Keep minutes for each meeting and circulate in order to ensure that everyone is on the same page and is able to follow up on tasks.
- In order to (of)-(and) (the) (ent)- (s)- people (a)-) 13 st